

Frederick J. Krebs

Frederick J. (“Fred”) Krebs is President of the Association of Corporate Counsel (“ACC”), a 24,000+ international membership organization, which serves as the ‘voice of the in-house bar’ and provides practical resources and extensive networking opportunities for its in-house counsel members.

Fred’s experience includes roles as an association executive, an in-house attorney and a lawyer in private practice with the law firm of Stephens & Krebs, where he specialized in corporate and trade association law. In 1975, Fred joined the U.S. Chamber of Commerce as the Assistant General Counsel, and later as Manager of the Labor and Human Resources Policy Department, overseeing all policy development and lobbying on labor and human resources issues. Fred joined ACC as the Executive Director in 1991 and during his time with ACC, the association has tripled in size, from 7,800 members in 1991, to now more than 24,000 members.

Fred frequently speaks and writes on issues related to in-house practice management, ethics and professional responsibility, as well as provides insight and commentary for media inquiries in the U.S., Canada, China and Europe. He serves as an adjunct professor at Georgetown University Law School and is on the Corporate Directors Institute Advisory Board for the National Association of Corporate Directors. Fred is a member of the American Bar Association and American Society of Association Executives.

Fred received his B.A. with honors, from Allegheny College and received his J.D. from Case Western Reserve University Law School, where he was a member of Law Review. He also attended the University of Manchester in Manchester, England. Fred is admitted to practice in Ohio, Virginia, the District of Columbia and before various federal courts.