

Marianne S. Huger

Marianne S. Huger is the Associate Director of Disability Services at Georgetown University Law Center in Washington, DC. In this capacity, Marianne coordinates accommodations for the 80+ J.D. and LL.M. students with disabilities at Georgetown Law. Additionally, she partners with various campus offices to increase the accessibility of the institution.

In addition to her professional experience, Marianne has recently completed her doctorate in Higher Education Administration. Her dissertation, entitled The Retention of College Students with Learning Disabilities, presented a nationally-generalizable picture of this student population. The research provided suggestions for practitioners working in the field of disability services.

Marianne has presented on current issues that affect disability service provision. These presentations have focused on best practices for web accessibility, fostering inclusive campus environments, and the utilization of Universal Design principles in institutional planning.

Marianne graduated magna cum laude with a B.A. in Psychology from Georgetown University. She received her M.A. in Education from The George Washington University. She completed her Ed.D. in Higher Education Administration at The George Washington University.
